

When cutting out wall, be certain to cut out red line until no trace of red remains, but be certain not to cut away too much. This line marks an internal corner and the internal walls must be slightly shorter than the outer walls by necessity.